

competitors are free to modify their own fees and credits in response, and because market participants may readily adjust their order routing practices, the Exchange believes that the degree to which fee changes in this market may impose any burden on competition is extremely limited.

In this instance, the amendments to Nasdaq Rule 7014, which include the elimination of the ISP, the addition of the SCIP, as well as amendments to both the QMM Program and the NBBO Program, do not impose a burden on competition because the Exchange's execution services are voluntary and subject to extensive competition both from other exchanges and from off-exchange venues. The Exchange believes that the competition among exchanges and other venues will help to drive price formation and overall execution quality higher for investors.

Rather than placing a burden on competition, the proposed changes to the programs included under Nasdaq Rule 7014, including to certain of the fees and rebates contained therein, are reflective of the fierce competition among market venues to attract order flow to the benefit of all market participants. Overall, the proposed changes to the incentive programs under Rule 7014 are designed to improve their effectiveness in achieving their stated purposes. If any of the changes proposed herein are unattractive to market participants, it is likely that the Exchange will lose market share as a result.

In sum, if the rule change proposed herein is unattractive to market participants, it is likely that the Exchange will lose market share as a result. Accordingly, the Exchange does not believe that the proposed change will impair the ability of members or competing order execution venues to maintain their competitive standing in the financial markets.
