Announcement of Boards Approved by HHS

In the personnel regulations at § 493.1443(b)(3)(i), individuals with an earned doctoral degree in a chemical, physical, biological or clinical laboratory science and certification by a board approved by HHS may qualify as a laboratory director. Under § 493.1455(a), individuals who meet the director qualification requirements of § 493.1443(b)(3)(i) may qualify as a clinical consultant. Under these provisions, four boards have been approved by HHS, and HHS has authority to recognize any certification board having comparable requirements. The American Board of Histocompatibility and Immunogenetics (ABHI) and the American Board of Medical Genetics (ABMG) applied for approval and submitted documentation on the education, training and experience required for certification. Both boards were determined to have credentialing requirements comparable to the boards currently approved by HHS, and ABHI and ABMG were subsequently notified that they meet CLIA requirements for board approval.

In this Notice we are announcing HHS approval of ABHI and ABMG certification to qualify individuals as laboratory directors and clinical consultants under the CLIA regulations. Individuals with a doctoral degree in a chemical, physical, biological or clinical laboratory science and certification by ABHI or ABMG meet the CLIA qualification requirements to serve as a laboratory director or clinical consultant.
