Regulation C requires depository institutions that meet its asset size jurisdictional thresholds to maintain data about home loan applications (the type of loan requested, the purpose of the loan, whether the loan was approved, and the type of purchaser if the loan was later sold), to update the information quarterly, and to report the information to their primary federal regulator annually. Regulation C applies to insured State nonmember banks supervised by the FDIC if those banks have assets exceeding a dollar threshold which is determined annually pursuant to a method required by 12 U.S.C. 2808(b) (for 1997 that number is $28 million). Banks may use a document known as the Loan Application Register (LAR) to comply with the information requirement. The FDIC uses the information to assist its examiners in determining that the banks it supervises comply with applicable provisions of HMDA. The data permit regulators and the public to detect possible instances of unlawful discrimination in connection with certain housing-related credit.
