SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The Hate Crime Statistics Act, reauthorized in June 1996, mandates that the Attorney General collect statistics and publish an annual report on hate crimes. During hearing testimony and in subsequent letters, members of Congress expressed an interest in a study that will facilitate better participation by police agencies.
BJS, consistent with its role as the statistical arm of the Justice Department and its longstanding interest in hate crime statistics, developed this solicitation to learn more about the impediments to local jurisdictions' participation in the collection of hate crime statistics and transmission of the statistics to the FBI for compilation at the national level.

BJS funded a project that resulted in the report Improving the Quality and

Accuracy of Bias Crime Statistics Nationally: An Assessment of the First Ten Years of Bias Crime Data Collection. The project included a review of national hate crime trends, a summary of results from a national law enforcement survey regarding officer attitudes about hate crime, and several other sources. The compilation of these data sources gives key insight into how hate crime reporting can be improved and how hate crime data should be interpreted. Electronic copies of the full report and an executive summary can be found at <www.dac.neu.edu/cj/>.

A survey of 2,657 law enforcement agencies was conducted to document impressions from law enforcement departments about the factors which impede or encourage accurate hate crime reporting. The findings from the report are as follows:

- There are serious disparities between what officers believed about the prevalence of bias crime and their agencies' official hate crime statistics.
- One of the major reasons cited for the disparity involves the break down in the two-step process of a local agency reporting to a state agency, which then compiles the hate crime reports. Many respondents felt that the indication of bias was occasionally lost within the departmental bureaucracy or process of transmitting data.
- Although it has been recommended by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, as well as advocacy groups, that police agencies develop and approve a formal policy for dealing with hate crime incidents, still only a minority of police agencies from across the country state that they had an official policy regarding hate crime.

The impetus for this solicitation is the report's recommendation that "the data indicate that in some number of cases an information disconnect occurs between the investigating officer and UCR reporting. Many officers stated that they knew of hate crimes that occurred in their jurisdiction but were not reflected in the official report. It is possible that officers note bias motivation in incident report narratives, but the information from such narrative is never documented into the UCR records. A more detailed analysis of the breakdown between hate crimes that are investigated locally and those that are reported nationally should be undertaken."

There are a number of possible explanations why an agency's numbers reported to the FBI might not reflect hate crimes that are known to officers on the street. Among the possibilities are these:
