Background and Description of the Act

The Act authorizes Federal support to States to provide adult education and literacy services, including adult basic education, adult secondary education, English literacy, and family literacy programs of instruction. For Fiscal Year (FY) 2002, Congress appropriated $505 million for these grants to States. Since FY 2000, Congress also has appropriated additional funds for grants to States for integrated English literacy and civics education services to immigrants and other limited English proficient populations. $70 million was appropriated for this purpose for FY 2002.

Under these programs States distribute funds to local providers through a competitive process. Eligible providers include: local educational agencies, community-based organizations, volunteer literacy organizations, correctional education agencies, institutions of higher education, libraries, public housing authorities, and other public or private nonprofit agencies.

The statutory authorization for this program expires on September 30, 2003. In order to contribute in a timely manner to congressional reauthorization discussions, we are beginning a review of this program. To ensure public participation in our review and decision-making, we invite public comment on these issues.

You may obtain an electronic copy of the Act on the Internet at the following site: <http://www.ed.gov/offices/OVAE/CTE/legis.html>.

Individuals with disabilities may obtain a copy of the Act in an alternative format (e.g., Braille, large print, audiotape, or computer diskette) on request to the contact number listed under FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT.

Key Issues for Public Comment

Comments are encouraged on the following priority issues.

1. Narrowing the Achievement Gap. The 1992 National Assessment of Adult Literacy (NAALS) indicated that approximately 90 million adults were reading at levels that were insufficient to allow them to fully participate in the economy and obtain new skills necessary for success. In 2002, an updated version of NAALS will be conducted, which will likely indicate that tens of millions of Americans continue to live with low literacy. Yet programs funded under the Act currently serve only about 2.7 million individuals each year. This disparity between available resources and need is likely to persist for the foreseeable future.

- How can we improve the targeting of Federal resources on effective programs that will produce the greatest return on the Federal investment?

- What are the features of effective adult education and literacy programs that should be given higher priority for Federal resources?

- How can we improve the performance of adult education programs, increasing their success in not only increasing the number of completers but also generating more rapid knowledge and skill gains?

- How we can expand the array of services available to support adult learners who are currently not accessing learning through the present system?

- Can non-traditional service providers be better integrated into a multi-faceted delivery system? What changes would promote the delivery of high-quality, accountable services by community-based organizations and faith-based organizations and businesses?

- How should our national program funds be targeted to help States close the achievement gap?

2. Increasing Accountability for Student Performance. The Act established a State accountability system that holds States and other grant recipients accountable for meeting annual, agreed-upon levels of performance on a set of “core indicators” specified in the statute. Do these core indicators measure student performance and demonstrate impact of the federal investment well? How could data be reported differently to enhance their meaning to the public, to students, and to policymakers?

3. Coordination with Federal Employment and Training Programs. Title I of the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) created a one-stop delivery system that links multiple Federal education and training programs in order to make these services more accessible to the public, to reduce duplication of services, and to facilitate coordinated planning across programs. Adult education and literacy programs supported by the Act are “mandatory partners” that are required to participate in the one-stop delivery system. They are also represented on local workforce investment boards that govern the one-stop system in local areas.

- Have the one-stop delivery system’s goals of improving public access to adult education services, improving academic achievement, reducing duplication, and facilitating coordination been achieved in local areas? What changes are needed to promote the further attainment of these goals? How have memoranda of understanding [MOUs] among the delivery system’s partners worked to benefit the adult education participant?

- States negotiate annual levels of performance for WIA Title I employment programs for a set of “core indicators” that is similar to that established under the Act. Placement in employment, for example, is measured for both WIA Title I and the Act. Should these indicators be measured consistently across these programs and others, using the same population and other definitions? If so, how should this common employment measure be constructed and what definitions should be used? Are there other indicators (e.g., educational attainment) for which there should also be common measurement approaches and definitions?

- Have WIA incentive grants helped States look at ways to promote student achievement across programs and help close the achievement gap?
