History and Description of the Remains

In April 2011, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from Galien River in Berrien County, MI. In early April of 2011 a minor was fishing in the Galien River in new Buffalo Township, MI. After casting into the center of the river the youth reeled in what appeared to be a large bone. The youth took the bone to his high school science teacher who contacted the Berrien County Sheriff's Office.

The Sheriff's Office's Dive Team responded by searching a section of the river approximately eight feet square, where they found additional skeletonized human remains. All of the human remains, including the original bone found by the minor, were transported to the Anthropology Department at Michigan State University and examined by Dr. Norman Sauer. The human remains were found to be "adult prehistoric Native American" of indeterminate gender, and returned to the Berrien County Sheriff's Office. No known individuals were identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

At the time of the excavation and removal of these human remains, the land from which the remains were removed was not the tribal land of any Indian tribe or Native Hawaiian organization.
