SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a guidance for government public health and emergency response stakeholders entitled “Extending Expiration Dates of Doxycycline Tablets and Capsules in Strategic Stockpiles.” A number of government public health and emergency response stakeholders maintain stockpiles of doxycycline tablets or capsules for post-exposure prophylaxis (PEP) or treatment of inhalational anthrax in the event of an anthrax emergency. States have asked FDA what would be necessary to provide confidence that stockpiled doxycycline tablets and capsules have retained their original quality (i.e., purity and potency) beyond the manufacturer’s labeled expiration date so the replacement of stockpiled product could be deferred. This document provides guidance to government stakeholders on testing to extend the expiration date—under section 564A(b) of the FD&C Act (21 U.S.C. 360bbb-3a(b))—of stockpiled doxycycline tablets and capsules for public health emergency preparedness and response purposes for an anthrax emergency.

This guidance applies to both doxycycline monohydrate and doxycycline hyclate tablets and capsules equivalent to 50 milligrams (mg) and 100 mg of doxycycline that are indicated for PEP or treatment of inhalational anthrax. Where doxycycline is mentioned throughout this guidance, it is meant to include both the hyclate and monohydrate forms of the drug that are indicated for PEP or treatment of inhalational anthrax.

This guidance finalizes the draft guidance issued in April 2017. Those comments received on the draft guidance did not result in any policy changes but in some instances did result in clarifying language in the final guidance document.

This guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The guidance represents the current thinking of FDA on “Extending Expiration Dates of Doxycycline Tablets and Capsules in Strategic Stockpiles.” It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations. This guidance is not subject to Executive Order 12866.

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft guidance for industry entitled “Adjusting for Covariates in Randomized Clinical Trials for Drugs and Biologics with Continuous Outcomes.” This guidance provides recommendations for the use of analysis of covariance (ANCOVA) in randomized clinical trials.

The target population for a new drug or biologic usually includes individuals with diverse prognostic factors, and the population studied in clinical trials should reflect this diversity. However, baseline differences in prognostic factors impair the detection and estimation of treatment effects. Incorporating prognostic factors in the statistical analysis of clinical trial data can mitigate this impairment and can result in a more efficient use of data to demonstrate and quantify the effects of treatment. The International Council for Harmonisation guidance for industry entitled “E9 Statistical Principles for Clinical Trials” briefly addresses these issues (<https://www.fda.gov/downloads/drugs/guidancecomplianceregulatoryinformation/guidances/ucm073137.pdf>). This guidance provides more detailed recommendations for the use of ANCOVA in randomized clinical trials.

This draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance, when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on “Adjusting for Covariates in Randomized Clinical Trials for Drugs and Biologics with Continuous Outcomes.” It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations. This guidance is not subject to Executive Order 12866.
